

'Ever Researching for a Brighter World'

Nichia is the number one LED (Light Emitting Diodes) manufacturer in the world with the largest market share among other high brightness LED manufacturers and an annual turnover of approximately 3.1 Billion Euros.

Nichia succeeded in developing and commercializing the super high brightness Blue LED in 1993. It was accepted with great amazement in the related industries throughout the world. Since the first announcement of the Blue LED in 1993, InGaN-based LEDs in different emission colors, ranging from ultraviolet to yellow, have been contributed to the diversification of LED application fields.

Nichia Corporation is a Japanese company that has subsidiary locations all over the world with 9,200 Employees worldwide.
